Getting Started

You will receive a Campbell University login and a temporary password. Please be sure to change your password as soon as possible. Your login and password will give you access to virtually everything in Campbell University’s electronic collection with the exception of UpToDate. You will have access to a wide array of resources that we hope will help you with your research and diagnostic needs. If at any time you experience problems reaching resources, please contact us and let us know so we can assist you.

Changing Your Password

To change your password, visit http://mycupassword.campbell.edu. When you reach the password page, be sure to enroll first, and then change your password. Should you have problems changing your password or accessing your account, please contact the medical library. You can also contact our university helpdesk at 910-893-1208 or helpdesk@campbell.edu. To assist you, the help desk will need your Campbell ID number. Your login credentials are for your exclusive use; please do not share them with others.

Locating Your Resources

Go to our medical library web page at http://library.campbell.edu/cusom. You can bookmark this guide on your computer and mobile device. Please always start your searching through the medical library—doing this ensures that you will be able to reach full-text resources. On the medical library’s home page be sure to take a look at the Resident Resource Guide, which is designed to help you locate the resources you need quickly and efficiently.

Services available to Campbell residents include:

- Literature searching and assistance, research consultation and article procurement.
- Assistance with creating a strategy to keep up with new developments in your specialization or areas of interest.
- Personalized training in the use of your Campbell resources and the management of research documentation.

Contacting the medical library

The medical library is located on the second floor of Levine Hall. Since you are off campus, you may find it easier to contact us by email (medicallibrary@campbell.edu) or telephone (910-893-7700).

I look forward to working with you!
